NEW QUESTION: 3

The Wireless Transport Layer Security Protocol (WTLS) in the Wireless

Application Protocol (WAP) stack provides for security:

- A. Between the WAP content server and the WAP client
- B. Between the Internet and the content server
- C. Between the WAP gateway and the content server
- D. Between the WAP client and the gateway

Answer: D

Explanation:

Transport Layer Security (TLS) provides for security between the content server on the Internet and the WAP gateway. (Answer "Between the WAP gateway and the content server" is, thus, incorrect.) Similarly, WTLS provides security between the WAP mobile device (client software) and the WAP gateway. Since WAP cannot interface directly with the Internet, all WAP information has to be converted to HTTP in the WAP gateway to enable it to exchange information with the Internet content servers. The simple block diagram illustrates these concepts.

Exhibit:

A vulnerability occurs since data encrypted with wireless protocols has to be decrypted in the WAP gateway and then re-encrypted with the Internet protocols. This process is reversed when data flows from the Internet content servers to the WAP client. Thus, the information is vulnerable while it is in the decrypted state on the WAP gateway. This condition is known as the WAP Gap. In order to address this issue, the WAP Forum has put forth specifications that will reduce this vulnerability and, thus, support e-commerce applications. These specifications are defined in WAP 1.2 as WMLScript Crypto Library and the WAP Identity Module (WIM). The WMLScript Crypto Library supports end-to-end security by providing for cryptographic functions to be initiated on the WAP client from the Internet content server. These functions include digital signatures originating with the WAP client and encryption and decryption of data. The WIM is a tamper-resistant device, such as a smart card, that cooperates with WTLS and provides cryptographic operations during the handshake phase.

The WAP Forum is also considering another alternative to providing the end-to-end encryption for WAP. This alternative, described in WAP specification 1.3, is the use of a client proxy server that communicates authentication and authorization information to the wireless network server.

*Answer "Between the Internet and the content server" is incorrect since the content server is on the Internet side of the communication and answer "Between the WAP content server and the WAP client" assumes a direct interface between the content server and the client without going through the necessary Internet and wireless protocols.

NEW QUESTION: 4

You work as a database administrator at ABC.com. You study the exhibit carefully. Exhibit:

You issue the following SQL statement:

Which statement is true regarding the execution of the above query?

- A. It produces an error because the TO_NUMBER function must be used to convert the result of the NULLIF function before it can be used by the NVL2 function.
- B. It produces an error because the AMT_SPENT column contains a null value.
- C. It displays a bonus of 1000 for all customers whose AMT_SPENT equals CREDIT_LIMIT, or AMT_SPENT is null.
- D. It displays a bonus of 1000 for all customers whose AMT_SPENT is less than CREDIT_LIMIT.

Answer: C

Explanation:

The NULLIF Function The NULLIF function tests two terms for equality. If they are equal the function returns a null, else it returns the first of the two terms tested. The NULLIF function takes two mandatory parameters of any data type. The syntax is NULLIF(ifunequal, comparison_term), where the parameters ifunequal and comparison_term are compared. If they are identical, then NULL is returned. If they differ, the ifunequal parameter is returned.
